Ahead of Dasara...

'Brooms Down'

Pourakarmikas threaten agitation

- Warn of strike from Oct.3 if demands not met
- Over 1,500 civic workers take out massive rally in city

Mysuru, Sept.19 (RK&BCT)- Don't be surprised if you see heaps of garbage and clogged drainages raising a stink on roads in city ahead of Dasara Nada Habba. Pourakarmikas, hired on contract basis and also the regular ones appointed by the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC), will stop all cleaning work from Oct.3.

Their "Broom Down" is against the State Government policies and comes at a time when the city is gearing up for a grand Dasara celebration.

They have set a deadline of Oct.2 for the Government to fulfil their demands. If the Pourakarmikas go on strike, it will be a new headache for the MCC and the District Administration as there will be just eight days (from Oct.3) for the festivities to begin on Oct.10.

Instant Triple Talaq is a crime now

Union Cabinet approves Ordinance

New Delhi, Sept.19- The Union Cabinet, chaired by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, this morning approved an ordinance making Triple Talaq a punishable offence. The step was taken after the Government failed to pass the Muslim Women (Protection of Rights on Marriage) Bill, 2017, in the Rajya Sabha during the recent monsoon session.

The Bill to criminalise Talaq-e-Biddat was passed by the Lok Sabha in the Winter Session of Parliament but got stuck in the Rajya Sabha with the Opposition parties having reservations over criminal provisions in the draft law. In view of the growing opposition to the Legislation, the Government in August approved three amendments to the 'Muslim Women Protection of Rights on Marriage Bill.

Urban ugly underbelly

Cities in the country are figuring in the news columns of dailies highlighting their state of cleanliness, as measured by over 30 parameters, and are also being ranked in their descending order of rating. Mysuru was bestowed top billing for two consecutive years (2015 and 2016) before sliding to fifth spot, with Indore in Madhya Pradesh occupying the perch on the victory stand, also for the past two consecutive years. Urban spaces, known more for their insanitary environs, too have earned attention of the ranking agencies, media reports on which don't seem to have generated any interest or enthusiasm on their part to vie for the honours. The civic authorities of both classes of cities owe a good measure of credit and discredit respectively in the business of keeping urban spaces fit for living in comfort and free from afflictions. Citizens of Mysuru, after the initial euphoria on being rated as the land's cleanest city, have just received a wakeup call as it were to be aware that cleanliness shall be their 24x7 agenda.

Profiling India's cities as well as towns, currently racing to 10,000 and villages numbering six lakh as a wild estimate, from specific social and economic angles makes a highly revealing and rewarding exercise. Disillusioned urban residents, who find themselves in a neither-here-nor-there state of mind and disenchanted rustics taking a peek at moving to cities, as being witnessed nowadays across the country, leaves one aghast to imagine where the action is taking the land's masses to.

If it is economic stress that is bugging the nearly 800 million rustics due to unviable returns from their major calling agriculture, it is social stress that urbanites have brought upon themselves with consequences that are there for all to experience helplessly. The two major social consequences of stress in daily life bugging the urbanites, a) lawlessness and b) declining interpersonal relationships, are traced to utter disregard to discipline on their part, particularly outside the boundary of their residences. Almost everyone faces rude situations for just pointing out a traffic mistake such as jumping the red signal by a co-traveller. Two-wheelers being a law-unto-themselves, persons at the wheel of moving automobiles talking on mobile phones, driving vehicles on one-way streets in the wrong direction, tossing plastic bags carrying domestic waste on road-sides in residential areas, easing oneself in full view of passersby and so on give the familiar profile of our cities.

Good Samaritans in society, whoever are still there, only earn a glowering look from the offending flock when given unsolicited advice on preventing their city suffering its ugly underbelly. One shall be thankful if the act of good samaritans doesn't result in road rage.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Growing up, going shopping with older female relatives was always a nightmare. They took inordinately long, visiting at least a dozen shops before even thinking about buying something. They seemed most interested in the least important things — hair clips being particular favourites. They fussed about things that were exceedingly trivial— choosing the colour of a bathroom mug could take them a good twenty minutes, till another aunt would remember that the first shop they had gone to had greater variety (it didn't). But by far what was the worst thing about being dragged along to these expeditions, was the bargaining that followed once some object had finally been identified as being worthy of purchase. The brazenness of their negotiations was deeply embarrassing; an asking price of Rs. 60 would be countered with an offer of 15. — Santosh Desai in The Times of India.

A billboard to contact man who got her pregnant

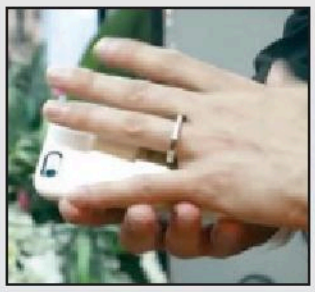
¡SE BUSCA!
CARLOS OROZCO, DIO POSITIVA LA PRUEBA, ESTOY EMBARAZADA
ME BLOQUEO DE FACEBOOK Y DEL CELULAR
ATENTAMENTE, TU AMIGA

San Luis Potosí: A woman from San Luis Potosí, Mexico has put up a large billboard to contact the man who allegedly got her pregnant and then cut off all contacts, even blocking her on Facebook, after her pregnancy test came out positive.

Photos of this billboard on top of a building between Mariano Jiménez Street and Salvador Nava Avenue, in San Luis Polosi, have been doing the rounds on social media over the last couple of weeks. It features the photo of a man in a cowboy hat, along with his full name and a very personal message from the woman who rented it – she's pregnant and this was apparently the only way to let him know, as he had blocked both her phone number and her Facebook account.

It's not clear if the stunt was successful and the anonymous woman was finally able to get in touch with Carlos Orozco.

Man marries Smartphone at Las Vegas



Las Vegas: Artist Aaron Chervenak drove from Los Angeles to Las Vegas, Nevada to finally take the love for his smartphone to the next level by marrying it at a small wedding chapel. And he even put a ring on it.

"We look to it for solace, to calm us down, to put us to sleep, to ease our mind, and to me that's also what a relationship is about," Aaron Chervenak said. So in a sense, my smartphone has been my longest relationship. That's why I decided to see what it was like to actually marry a phone."

The wedding ceremony was small and the groom was a bit nervous during his speech and putting the ring on the phone.

"It's not yet legal to marry smartphones, but what I hope my wedding will do is to somehow act as a gesture to show how precious our phones are and get other to ask the same question," Chervenak said.

Really...?

- The average human heart weighs between 6 and 11 ounces. The muscle is strong enough to pump up to 2,000 gallons — as much as a fire department's tanker truck — of blood through one's body every day. The average heart beats between 60 and 80 times per minute, but this depends on a person's cardiovascular health and activity level. The more physically fit people are, the lower their resting heart rates will be.

Hinkal Flyover deadline: Enforce stringent clauses

Sir,

Apropos the news item "Hinkal Flyover not before Dasara" (SOM dated Sept.17), we find that most of the works executed by Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA) or Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) gets extended much beyond the stipulated deadline to complete the projects.

May be owing to biased contract agreement terms favouring the contractors, works like Town Hall parking and Hinkal Flyover are not getting executed within the stipulated time period. When the tax-payers' money is involved in financing these projects, it is the duty and the responsibility of the bureaucrats to draft stringent terms and conditions in the contracts.

Stipulated time of completion and penal clause in case of failure to complete the project within the stipulated time should be clearly mentioned. MUDA or MCC should be able to initiate stringent action against the defaulting contractors, based on these terms and conditions.

Projects like Raja Marga and construction of Sri Jayadeva Institute of Cardiovascular Sciences and Research Centre were not executed within the stipulated period and instead of applying penal clause for the delay, the contractors were awarded escalation cost over and above the contract amount.

To save money, most of the contractors employ less number of labour and then go on extending the contract period claiming escalation costs. The authorities concerned should strictly draft penal clauses and also apply these penal clauses when there is an unreasonable delay in the execution of projects using public funds.

'Battle of Haifa' centenary fete in city on Sept.23

Mysuru, Sept.19 (SBD&BCT)- Member of the erstwhile Mysore royal family Yaduveer Krishnadatta Chamaraja Wadiyar said that the centenary commemoration of the 'Battle of Haifa' will be held at Rajendra Kalamandira on Ramanuja Road in city on Sept.23 at 6 pm.

Addressing a press conference at Pathrakartara Bhavan along with Secretary of Haifa Centenary Celebration Committee M.S. Harish Shenoy, Yaduveer said that the battle between the joint Ottoman and German forces and the regiment comprising Jodhpur Lancers, Hyderabad Lancers and Mysore Lancers for 15th Imperial Service Cavalry Brigade was among the historic combats in the records of Mysore kingdom. The 'fiercest battle' in the city of Haifa in Israel culminated on Sept.23, 1918.

One of the reasons for celebrating the centenary was to make aware the people of Mysuru about this forgotten history. "We have constituted the Haifa Centenary Celebration Committee to pay homage to the soldiers from Mysore and we have organised the centenary celebrations on Sept.23 where the descendants of Mysore Lancers will be felicitated," he said. Higher Education Minister G.T. Devegowda, who is also the Mysuru District Minister, MPs R. Dhruvanarayan and Pratap Simha will participate, he said.

Elaborating, Yaduveer said that Lancers were soldiers of a cavalry regiment, armed with lances — a long weapon similar to a spear, with a wooden shaft and a pointed steel head. These were used by horsemen. Lancers were the personal bodyguards of the then Maharaja Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar and most of them belonged to Urs families.

Yaduveer Krishnadatta Chamaraja Wadiyar is seen addressing the press conference as M.S. Harish Shenoy looks on.

"War historians say that Indian soldiers, including Mysore Lancers, were armed only with lances and swords while the Turks were armed with artillery and guns. Soldiers from Mysore along with Jodhpur and Hyderabad Lancers fought and liberated the Israeli city of Haifa," he said.

Records say that over 3,000 Lancers from Mysore took part in the battle. While some Lancers were martyred, many came back victorious in 1920 and later, the unit was merged with the Indian Army under 61st Cavalry. There are about 800 graves of Indian soldiers across Israel, including in Haifa, Yaduveer said.

The joint forces of Mysore and Jodhpur Lancers also freed the leader of Baha'i Faith, Abdu'l Baha, son of the founder of the Faith, from unjust imprisonment. Yaduveer said a Memorial commemorating the bravery of Indian soldiers exists in Haifa, New Delhi and Bengaluru. The government can consider developing such a Memorial in Mysuru too as the Lancers were originally from Mysuru, he said.

Harish Shenoy said, the Centenary Committee has proposed to take the Haifa story to schools and tell students about the bravery of Lancers who fought with lances and swords against their rivals who were armed with modern weapons. There are also plans to organise events like quiz and debates on the battle in schools. He too urged the State Govt. to install a War Memorial and Museum in remembrance of the Haifa battle, in Mysuru.

Yaduveer declines to comment on Ambari

At the press conference, Yaduveer said that it will be a traditional Dasara at the Mysore Palace from Oct.10 to 19 and rituals will be held as per tradition. He was, however, quick to decline to comment on the Golden Howdah (Ambari). "The records of the Ambari are with my mother and she is better placed to comment on that," he replied to the questions of reporters.

On his entry into politics, he said that he has no interest in politics. "No political party has approached me nor have I contacted any political leaders. I am doing religious works by rendering my services at various temples," he said.

On his wife Trishikha's doctoral aspirations, Yaduveer said that she would further her Ph.D in forestry and the lives of tribals. But she has not registered her name in any University, Yaduveer said.

Karnataka MLAs
The richest in India

- Lesser the education of MLAs, higher the income
- Isn't it an indication of corruption, ask public

New Delhi, Sept.19- The Association of Democratic Reforms (ADR), a New Delhi-based think tank, has come out with a report that indicates that the average income of India's MLAs is 17 times that of an average Indian.

According to ADR, the average income of 3,145 sitting MLAs across India was Rs.2.5 million per annum. South Indian Legislators were the richest in India with a per capita income of Rs.5.2 million — double the national average for all Legislators. Among the South Indian States, MLAs from Karnataka were the richest with an average annual income of Rs.11 million.

ADR had analysed the income of 203 MLAs from Karnataka to derive their average annual income. By the look of it, the poorest South Indian MLAs came from Tamil Nadu with an average income of Rs.2.4 million closely followed by Kerala with an average annual income of Rs.2.5 million.

The ADR report states that the poorest MLAs in the country came from Western India with an average annual income of less than one million rupees. Among individual States, the poorest MLAs came from the State of Chhattisgarh with an average income of almost half-a-million rupees. Jharkhand had the second poorest MLAs with an average annual income of Rs.7,40,000. West Bengal had the third poorest MLAs with an average income of Rs.7,60,000.

What perhaps stands out in ADR's analysis is the fact that the richest MLAs have declared their profession as agriculture. The richest 'farmer' MLAs totalling 397 and accounting for 13 percent of the MLAs whose incomes were analysed had an average annual income of Rs.5.8 million.

Overall, a quarter of all MLAs in ADR's study had declared their profession as 'agriculture' in their election affidavits. The report further mentions that Bollywood actors were also among the richest category of MLAs along with farmers and businessmen.

The least educated MLAs have an average annual income that is four times that of all MLAs across India making them one of the richest in the country. Among those MLAs who have declared their income, 139 MLAs with 8th pass as their educational qualification have average annual self-income worth Rs.8.98 million.

Even illiterate MLAs had an average income which was higher than the per capita income of India. Illiterate MLAs earn Rs.9,31,000. That's almost six times the per capita income of Indians. The lack of any correlation between educational qualifications of MLAs and their average annual incomes becomes even more apparent when one compares the income of graduates with others. Non-graduate MLAs had an average annual income of Rs.3.1 million while graduates earned Rs.2 million every year.

Indication of corruption

Commenting on the riches owned by the MLAs, N. Kulkarni, a reader of Star of Mysore, said that the money was a clear indication of the scale of corruption in South India, especially Karnataka. "Our MLAs have successfully beaten the MLAs of New Delhi and surprisingly, the least educated they are, the more money they make," he said.

ADR Report Highlights

- Average annual income of 3,145 sitting MLAs is Rs.2.45 million
- 711 MLAs in South India have the highest average annual income worth Rs.5.19 million
- 614 MLAs in Eastern Region have the lowest average annual income worth Rs.8,53,000
- Karnataka's 203 MLAs have the highest average annual income of Rs.11.14 million
- Housewife, teacher, pensioner and lawyer are among the least paid profession categories
- MLAs who have declared illiterate have an average annual self-income of Rs.9,31,000
- 1,052 (33 percent) MLAs are between 5th pass to 12th pass. They have average annual income of Rs.3.10 million
- 1,997 (63 percent) MLAs are graduates and above. They have average annual income of Rs 2.08 million
- 771 (25 percent) out of 3,145 MLAs, 55 (2 per cent) MLAs have declared business as their profession, and 758 (24 percent) MLAs as agriculturist/ farmer

In this week's Pet Talk,
Maneka speaks about the suicidal tendencies in animals, squirrels' habitat and musical instruments made of animal products.

Pet Talk

Maneka Gandhi

What does rhinoceroses have on their nose?

"Rhinoceros" comes from Old Greek, meaning "horned nose." But the horns are not made of bone but of matted hair or keratin.

Can animals have suicidal tendencies?

Many animals, that appear to be depressed or grieving, begin to exhibit self-destructive behaviour that sometimes ends in death. In 1845, the Illustrated London News reported that a Newfoundland dog had been acting less lively over a period of days before being seen "to throw himself in the water and endeavour to sink by preserving perfect stillness of the legs and feet." Every time he was rescued he attempted to do this again before he finally held his head underwater until death. Other dogs, as well as ducks, have also drowned themselves. One duck did so after the death of its mate. Some dogs will refuse food after the death of their owner, until they die as well. In 2009, 28 cows and bulls mysteriously threw themselves off a cliff in the Swiss Alps over the span of three days. One deer leapt from a cliff to its death so as to avoid being captured by hunting dogs. Sheep being taken for slaughter in Mongolia all leapt into a lake to drown. Suicidal behaviour has been observed more in female animals than male.

How would a street dog family react if one of the puppies has been separated from the family?

Like any other mother, dogs are instinctively protective of the puppies for about 4 -6 weeks, while they are still nursing them. Once they decide the puppies are old enough to get their food elsewhere, they become less involved. But if the puppy has been killed, or taken away, they certainly mourn loudly for many days.

Are musical instruments made of animal products?

Instruments such as Mridangam, Madhalam, Tabla, Khol, Thavil, Dhol, Dholak, Damaru, Chenda, Chande, Timila, Udukkai, Pakhavaj and many other folk instruments are made of cow, buffalo, goat and calf skins. Drums like Idakka use cow's intestinal membrane in their construction and Kanjira is made using skin of monitor lizards (illegally). Piano keys are made from the hooves, horns & bones of variety of animals. Some companies even advocate the use of lanolin, tallow, or other animal oils, to clean drum heads.

Is it true that bulls react aggressively to the colour red?

Bulls are actually colour blind for red and green. It's not the colour, but the movement of the cape and the sword that makes bulls turn to defend themselves and so seem angry. The bulls are alert to danger and they have been trained from their young age to react to the cape, because if they don't they will be poked painfully.

What do elephants use their tusks for?

Elephants use their tusks for a variety of tasks. Principally, they are formidable weapons against potential predators like the tiger, or in battle against other elephants. They are also used to aid foraging, digging, stripping bark and moving things out of the way; trained logging elephants are capable of lifting large logs with their tusks. There is also a display element to tusks, and large ones attract the interest of females.

What causes wolves to howl?

Wolves howl because they are sending a message to other wolves. A howl can mean many things, from a friendly call to a pack-mate, to a noisy claim of territory to other neighbouring wolves. It can be a rally to the pack before a hunt, or an invitation to find a new mate in the months of winter.

Do female dogs need to have one litter of puppies before they can be spayed?

It is a common misconception that female dogs should have a litter of puppies before being neutered in order to meet their, 'motherly' needs. There are absolutely no physical & mental advantages, or disadvantages, for a dog to have a litter before being spayed.

Do turtle shells grow back?

Overlapping sheets of keratin make up the scutes that cover a turtle. Unlike a snail, a turtle is not able to trade in one shell for another if it is damaged or just doesn't fit anymore. The turtle's shell never falls off and is never too large or too small, because it grows with the turtle and is part of its body. Shells have a blood and nerve supply, so bleeding and pain can result if the shell is injured.

What does a rabbit do when it is happy?

The happiest rabbit expression is commonly called a "binky." When a rabbit binkies, it jumps into the air and twists its head and body in opposite directions before falling back to the ground.

Do leopards purr?

No, leopards don't purr. Cats can both purr and roar. The "roaring cats," like leopards, lions, tigers, jaguar, have an incompletely ossified hyoid bone which, according to this theory, enables them to roar but not to purr.

Where do squirrels live?

For squirrels, their happy holes consist of either ground holes, dens, or drays. There are nuances between these different structures, the types of squirrels that use them, and the circumstances under which one type of nest is used over another. For tree squirrels and flying squirrels, the nest consists of dens or drays. A den is created in the side of a tree and is typically constructed using moss and leaves for bedding. Dens can be built into abandoned woodpecker holes or the natural cavities of a tree.

Are there any animals who eat bamboo?

Giant pandas, gorillas, chimpanzees and elephants, eat soft bamboo shoots, leaves and stems. All rodents also eat the bamboo fruit.

Do you believe that some animals can laugh just like humans?

So far, apes and rats are the only known animals to get the giggles. Chimpanzees and gorillas show laughter-like vocalisations in response to physical contact such as wrestling, play chasing or tickling. Rats also laugh when tickled.

Is killing a snake in one's own defence a crime?

Yes, killing a snake in one's own defence is a crime specially when there are hundreds of alternatives. Snakes cannot see or hear. They never attack. They only defend themselves. If you are in close proximity to a snake — and most of the time, the snakes that come to human habitations are harmless rat or wolfsnakes — stand still, back away or call out to someone to get a sheet or towel and throw it on the snake.

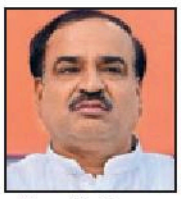
Will ill health keep Ananth Kumar out of Lok Sabha polls?



Ananth Kumar

Bengaluru, Sept. 19- While the office of Union Parliamentary Affairs Minister H.N. Ananth Kumar has trashed reports that he is suffering from cancer, efforts are on within the BJP to find a replacement for him from the Bengaluru South Parliamentary constituency for the forthcoming Lok Sabha polls.

Ananth Kumar's conspicuous absence from public domain for the past two weeks has led to speculation about his health. Kumar, a six-time MP from Bengaluru South, is at present in London.

Sources say Kumar has requested the party leadership to excuse him from contesting elections next year. He has cited health complications. His office though has said that he is in London, visiting his cousins and will return soon.

"Ananth Kumar's health has been a cause concern for a while now, but nothing has been decided on the BJP candidate for Bengaluru South," a source close to the Minister said, adding: "If he does not want to contest, the party will look for a new candidate. He does not want any of his family members to succeed him."

DKS stable but still in hospital

Shivakumar

Bengaluru, Sept. 19- The condition of senior Congress leader and Water Resources Minister D.K. Shivakumar, who was admitted to Apollo Hospital at Sheshadripuram in Bengaluru, is said to be stable. He continues to be at the hospital.

Shivakumar had complained of a bad stomach and doctors had suspected it to be a case of food poisoning which kept him confined to his Kanakapura home since Monday. Though doctors treated him at his home, the Minister was shifted to the hospital yesterday.

Sources close to Shivakumar attributed the bad stomach to a sandwich he consumed on his flight from Hyderabad to Bengaluru. This forced the Minister to skip a Teacher's Day event he was slated to attend in Kanakapura, his constituency. A team of doctors attended on him and he is under rest for nearly five hours.

Latest reports from Bengaluru said that Shivakumar was suffering from dehydration and the doctors have advised him some rest.

The Enforcement Directorate yesterday registered a money laundering case against Shivakumar in connection with alleged tax evasion and hawala transactions. The agency has filed the case based on a chargesheet filed by the Income Tax Department against him earlier this year before a special court in Bengaluru. Summons is expected to be issued soon to Shivakumar and his four associates under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA).

The IT Department has accused Shivakumar of transporting a huge amount of unaccounted cash on a regular basis through 'hawala' channels with help of four other accused. The complaint was filed after the department found Rs. 8.59 crore in cash at four Delhi properties, during searches on nearly 60 premises linked to him and his associates in August 2017.

Pourakarmikas' agitation

A massive rally was taken out from Town Hall to Deputy Commissioner's Office this morning by Pourakarmikas who are pressing for their demands. They wore black stripes on their arms, registering their protest. There are over 1,800 Pourakarmikas doing the cleaning work in city and over 1,500 of them participated in the rally.

Former Mayor Narayan, who is the President of Karnataka State Corporation, Municipality, Town Municipality Pourakarmika Federation, led the protest. "We will stop all cleaning works from the morning of Oct. 3 and will not participate in Dasara cleaning works too until our demands are met," the Pourakarmikas said as they marched along the streets shouting slogans against the Government.

Among their demands are scrapping of the Contract System while hiring Pourakarmikas.

Though the State Government had abolished contract Pourakarmika system in local bodies as per the order issued on July 12, 2017, the MCC had not implemented the order.

"All recruitments must be done by the MCC and the wages have to be paid accordingly," they said.

As of now, Mysuru has one Pourakarmikas per 700 population. This number is unscientific and must be reduced to 500 and more Pourakarmikas must be hired, they demanded.

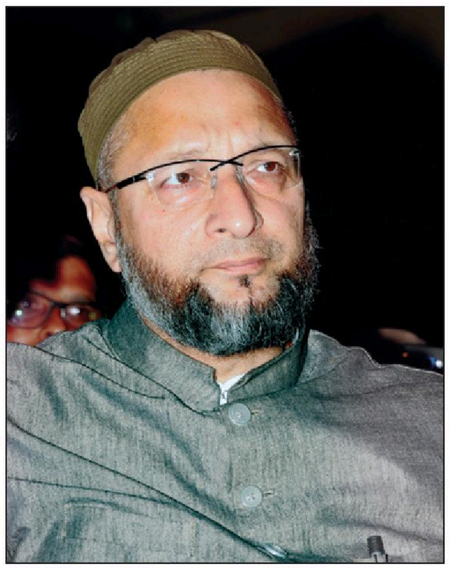
Exclusive interview with Firebrand AIMIM President Asaduddin Owaisi

"I pity people who compare me with the person who created Pakistan"



It is a common trait to form opinions and be judgemental about people not only in private lives but more so about persons in public lives. And most of the times the judgements are clouded as they are based on hearsays as also because of our own mindset. This is very true when it comes to the firebrand politician Asaduddin Owaisi, MP and President of All India Majlis-e-Ittehad-ul Muslimeen (AIMIM), who with his fiery speeches evokes strong reaction from people who disagree with his point of views to the extent of calling him divisive and unpatriotic.

Star of Mysore Features Editor N. Niranjan Nikam caught up with this tall, stern-looking man with beard, dressed in traditional attire of a long coat, pajamas, a skull cap and serious, thinking eyes behind those glasses, at a private hotel just before he embarked on canvassing for a candidate at the local body elections. The candidate lost the election is another matter!

In this short interview lasting a little more than 20 minutes, the highly articulate Barrister Owaisi held forth on his reason for campaigning, his views about the current political scenario, his life as a student of Law in London, his stress on the Constitution and above all, spoke at length about triple talaq, with great aplomb. Excerpts. —Editor

By N. Niranjan Nikam

Star of Mysore (SOM): Being a three-time MP, you have come to canvass for a candidate contesting for local body polls. What is the reason behind this move of yours?

Asaduddin Owaisi: I am a soldier of my party and I head a political party also. For me, it doesn't make any difference as long as my candidate wins, my party wins and flourishes. So every election is important to us. It is not a case of being a three-time or four-time MP. The party is very important to me and because of it only I am here. It is not that I can take comfort in being a three-time MP and say I only campaign for this election or that. I feel I am a stakeholder in every election that my party contests. I must go and try my best so that my party candidate wins.

SOM: Politics is in your blood. Your grandfather re-launched the political party Majlis-e-Ittehadul Muslimeen as All India Majlis-e-Ittehadul Muslimeen (AIMIM). What does your party stand for in the present context of politics?

Owaisi: See the issue is not what is happening in the present context. I understand the present political context when one talks about heightened politics of Hindutva, then there is definitely cause of concern. But we always said that people belonging to Minorities, Dalits and people for whom grave injustice has been done should get a political voice. And this is what we have been striving for from 1957 onwards when our party was re-launched. It was clearly made out that this party would abide by the Indian Constitution. So basically, it was a new party, not a re-launched one. Because, the earlier avatar of this was at a time when it was in a feudal State. Hence, we said, we will register ourselves with the Election Commission of India, participate in electoral democracy that has been one of the main ethos of the new party and the journey still continues.

SOM: Everyone is critical of political dynasties and now the same charge can apply to you as most of your family members are involved in politics. How do you react?

Owaisi: You see at the end of the day the proof of the pudding is in the eating. Initially, I might have the first mover advantage but it is always that you have to go to the people, solve their problems, meet them, live up to some part of their expectations and win elections. So the issue is that you have to win elections. If you don't win elections, then that is the end of the matter. Problem with me has always been that people compare me with my late father. That is a huge, huge disadvantage but then again it is a great challenge for me to work harder.

SOM: As a Parliamentarian you have been conferred the 2014 Sansad Ratna Award (Gem of Parliamentarians). You have asked 1,080 questions in the Parliament compared to National average of just 292. How did you achieve this?

Owaisi: I have a two-member dedicated team who helps in drafting questions and I must also thank PRS (Policy Research Studies) Legislative Research, a non-profit organisation. Basically they give a lab assistant to all MPs and they have been very kind enough to give me one and from last eight to nine years they have also helped in drafting questions and that has been a great help to me. Apart from that, yes I also have interest that we must ask questions because that is what people elect us for — to ask questions on behalf of the people to find answers to their problems.

SOM: Did your questions result in anything good at all for your Constituency or the country?

Owaisi: (In a mischievous tone) Well, it is for someone to write my obituary about all this. Definitely when we put questions, these are all questions related to issues of common man and you know, that in itself is a huge check on the government that someone is asking them questions, probing them, exposing them. So definitely that will always keep a government on its toes. That is the best Parliamentary procedure, which an MP has to ask these questions to the government.

SOM: Like many other politicians of earlier era, you are a Barrister by profession and that explains your oratory skills. How was it studying in Lincoln's Inn, London, which is recognised as one of the most professional bodies of Judges and Lawyers in the world?

Owaisi: It has been tough, you know it has not been easy to go and sit for the Bar exams. Anyway, nothing is easy in life, but it has been a great experience. I cherish my memories of having those dinners in Lincoln's Inn because the procedure is that you cannot be called to the Bar, unless and until you have 18 or 24 dinners.

SOM: Oh, is it?

Owaisi: Yeah, even if you pass the exams you cannot be called to the Bar. You have to finish those dinners.

SOM: What is so unique about that?

Owaisi: That is the age-old convention and tradition of the Lincoln's Inn that you have to wear a dark coloured suit and attend all those dinners. And in those dinners all the Judges of the High Courts of England and Wales, who had passed out from Lincoln's Inn would come and sit.

So they will be sitting at different tables and then after dinner you can speak to them, interact with them. Those dinners were quite unique. I mean, I cannot eat any non-vegetarian food because it is not halal. So, I used to cherish that omelette which cost seven pounds or five pounds.

SOM: Oh, you have to pay for it?

Owaisi: Yes, of course, all of them had to pay.

SOM: The issue of Talaq has now occupied centrestage with even Supreme Court declaring instant Triple Talaq, unconstitutional. This is a huge win for women's right groups. But still it is stalled in Rajya Sabha. What is your view?

[EDITOR'S NOTE: As we went to press today, the Union Cabinet approved an Ordinance that makes instant Triple Talaq a criminal offence. See report on page-1]

Owaisi: First of all Supreme Court has not called it unconstitutional. They have only set it aside. If you read the last few pages and in fact if you read the last page, it is set aside.

SOM: It is set aside, so this is wrong?

Owaisi: So, it is wrong to call it unconstitutional. Supreme Court (SC) has not said it is unconstitutional. They have only said, 'We have set aside triple talaq.' So SC has set aside triple talaq is a fact.

Secondly, it is not victory for human rights or whatever people stand for. Why, because SC had not called for a penal provision or it has not called for the legislation to be made.

Third point is that the proposed Bill of the BJP Government is against the fundamental rights of the Constitution. Article 14 and 15 is Right to Equality and against discrimination. Because, if Mr. Niranjan is charged under a crime or similar crime and if you are convicted by courts of law, you will get one year of sentence. And if I am charged under the present Bill, I will get three years of imprisonment. This is against Right to Equality.

Fourthly, this Bill in Section 3 says that even if a Muslim gives a triple talaq, the marriage is not void. If the marriage is not void, what are you arresting me for? I have not committed a crime.

Fifthly, if I am sent to prison and I am told to pay subsistence allowance to the woman, which right thinking person, who is in prison, would give subsistence allowance?

Sixthly, the Bill says that you must give allowance, maintenance; all these things happen only after divorce takes place. You are saying the divorce has not happened. So why should I pay maintenance allowance?

The seventh point is that if the court convicts me, the Bill says that marriage is still in existence and why are you putting this woman to hardship that she has to wait for three years and when this man comes out, she will be holding a garland and saying 'Baharo phool barsao mera mehboob aya hai?'

And the last point is that if there is any violation of SC order then it is a sentence, which is contempt of six months. If anyone gives a triple talaq and the marriage is not void, that means marriage is still in existence.

So, if this Bill is made law, what would this man, who is a buffoon, do? If any Muslim man does it, he is a fool. What will he do? He will go to the court and say, Ok Sir, I didn't say it three times, I have said only once. He will wait for 90 days and then talaq happens. You create more injustice and in a criminal law, evidence is very important. So, who will come up for that poor woman and stand up in court and say, yes, I heard this man say talaq, talaq, talaq. Rs. 50,000 crore was the loss of 2G, you cannot prove that loss and this government expects that a woman will get justice in a far-flung rural area in the court.

So what we have been consistently saying is that marriage in Islam is a contract, it is a civil law. It cannot be turned into a criminal act and you can ask me, then what about law? There is already a law, you have Section 125 CrPC (Criminal Procedure Code), you have Domestic Violence Act, 198 CrPC. Everything is there, you use it, who is stopping you?

SOM: Since you have explained so elaborately, then why is it that the Muslim women are so gung ho about this, telling that at last they have got victory?

Owaisi: Triple talaq is a social evil, we are not denying it. This has to go, it will definitely go. Because if someone tells me that by making law social ills of society has gone away, I don't agree with that. We still have law against child marriage. 2011 census says that more than a crore non-Muslim child marriages took place. Who is to be blamed for that?

We have made laws that we will give capital punishment if a woman is raped and murdered. Has that stopped? It has not stopped. Now, we have made laws that if a small child is raped, capital punishment will be given. Will that stop? The problem is that man has become an animal, so how do you control that criminal mindset of a man? It is fine that you make laws, but you still have to reform the society.

Now, if you create criminal provisions, I remember in England, at one point of time there was capital punishment for pick-pocketing. At Trafalgar Square in England, there was public execution of a pick-pocket. In that public execution many people lost their wallets. So what to do? This Bill has lot of legal lacunae and lot of weaknesses.

SOM: Was it really a good idea to break AP into Telangana and Andhra Pradesh though you as a Telangana man have all the advantages with Hyderabad remaining with you?

Owaisi: It is a fait accompli; there is no point in answering that question.

SOM: General elections are just approaching. How do you read the mood of the nation?

Owaisi: You see, to beat the BJP, the Congress has adopted Hindutva itself, not soft, but the real Hindutva. You don't fight your opponents on their strong points. You drag them out of their houses or strong fort they live in and then defeat them.

The Congress party has now adopted Hindutva and that will not be enough. You are playing on the strong points of BJP. So you expose them on employment, economy, demonetisation, on the terrorist incursions, attacking army camps. You question them and expose them on no normalcy in Kashmir. These are the themes which you have to expose them. But you cannot become a 'B' team of Hindutva and expect to win.

SOM: But does the hope rest only on the Congress to fight the ruling party in the next election?

Owaisi: I am of the opinion that regional parties will play a very important role in the next government formation.

NOTE: When we see Congress President Rahul Gandhi's temple-run during the just concluded Karnataka Assembly elections (which he lost) and his visit to Manasarovar, it looks like he is becoming the 'B' team of Hindutva as Asaduddin Owaisi has said towards the end of this interview. —KBG, Editor-In-Chief.

SOM: You have always been courting controversies and many political commentators even liken you to Mohammad Ali Jinnah. Does this not irritate you?

Owaisi: No, I pity those who compare me with the person who created Pakistan and really it shows their petty-mindedness. I am a third generation or fourth generation Indian and my forefathers had the choice of going to Pakistan and they rejected it. I am an Indian by birth and by choice. This is the great distinction which I have while other Indians don't. That is, by choice and by birth I am an Indian. So if people still compare me with Mr. Jinnah then it shows they are still living in 1947-48 era and it also shows their communal and biased attitude towards Muslim community. That is why we see that they don't want the real empowerment of Muslims, whether it is political, social or educational.

This mindset has really ensured that Muslims do not get justice because if you view Muslims through the prism of Mr. Jinnah then you will never do justice. I am a third time MP, twice I have been an MLA, I have taken oath on the Indian Constitution and my whole struggle is for my Constitutional rights. Now, if that is being called by my detractors, my opponents in this way then I can only pity them and tell them, don't do it because you are exposing yourself very badly.

Reducing Dasara holidays for school students draws flak

Mysuru, Sept.19 (SR)- The District Unit of Karnataka State Primary School Teachers Association has demanded the State Government to review its decision on reducing Dasara holidays for school students of the district.

In a press release, the President of the Unit H. B. Basavaraj said that State Government has reduced the Dasara holidays to 14 days this year from the 21-day holiday last year.

He said that Dasara is a ten-day long festival. People from all over the world flock the city during the celebrations. People of the district will have to invite their relatives and friends to the fest besides they must spend more time with them. The entire city and district will gear up to host Dasara. People of all ages, students take part in the festivities.

Usually, midterm holidays for schools coincide with Dasara celebrations. When the concept of Makkala Dasara was introduced a few years ago, schools were told to function until the Children's Dasara events conclude to ensure that the programmes get good participation from children. Moreover, the schools need teachers to coordinate and help children take part in the events.

As Mysuru district has not been affected by nature's fury like in other parts of the State where students had to stay away from schools for days together, the Government should relax its rules for school students of Mysuru district, he urged in the release.

This is the fourth cow that was killed by the tiger since a few months and the incident has created a sense of fear among the residents. As soon as the tiger attacked the cow, the cowherd, who was nearby began to scream for help and even other cattle grazing nearby began to run helter-skelter thus scaring the tiger away. But by that time, the tiger had killed the cow.

A tiger, along with two cubs, was seen frequently at the estate and its surroundings and the efforts by the Forest Department to capture them using elephants and also by placing a cage had failed. As the operation to capture the tiger is stopped now, the incident has proved that the tiger is still in the estate.

Earlier, when PCCF (Wildlife) Jayaram had inspected the place, the estate was not properly maintained as weeds and overgrown bushes were found in abundance at the estate, which is a perfect place for big cats to hide. A notice was issued to the estate owner to clear weeds and bushes which was not done.

There are two tribal hamlets and many villages in the vicinity and the residents, including students, are now afraid to go out of the house. The villagers have urged the Forest Department officials to act fast and take steps to capture the tiger at the earliest.

Mysuru, Sept. 19 (RK&BCT)- Over 200 people from Kuvempunagar and surrounding areas have filed complaints against S. Manjunath who owns Pranitha Properties and Infrastructure Limited at Kuvempunagar this morning for allegedly cheating them to the tune of crores of rupees by promising them house sites.

The complainants accused Manjunath of collecting money that ranged from Rs. 50,000 to Rs. 1 lakh since a couple of years. He had opened an office at Kuvempunagar and simultaneously was running a chit fund business.

This morning, a large number of people who were allegedly cheated by Manjunath assembled at his house at Kuvempunagar and staged a protest. They alleged that Manjunath had gone absconding and they had lost their hard-earned money.

Soon, the Police intervened and asked people not to create trouble in the area. They were convinced by the Police to file complaints. Accordingly, over 200 people filed the complaints today.

WORD OF THE DAY

Chiliad

Pronunciation: KILL-ee-ad.

Meaning: A group of 1000; a period of 1000 years; especially one reckoned from the beginning of the Christian era.

Origin: What's the difference between a chiliad and a millennium? Not much: both are a period of 1000 years. While millennium is more widely used, chiliad is actually older. Chiliad first appeared in the late 1500s and was originally used to mean "a group of 1000," as in "a chiliad of arrows"; millennium didn't make its way into written English until some decades later, in the early 1600s. Not surprisingly, both words trace back to roots that mean "thousand." Millennium comes from Latin mille, and chiliad is a descendant of Greek chilioi.

Examples: Erin's pursuit of an MD degree felt like it took a chiliad, but she achieved her goal and is now running her own paediatric clinic.

"While teachers may offer children some new vocab words, there are some at-home tricks parents can also use to make sure their children learn a chiliad of new words." — Herb Scribner, The Petoskey (Michigan) News-Review, 6 Sept. 2015

THE ODD WORD

Deglutition

The action or process of swallowing.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Canteen culture

Meaning: The colloquial name for the conservative and discriminatory attitudes held by some sections of the British Police forces.

Origin: This term is generally applied to describe the attitudes of some of the lower ranks of the British Police force, who resist change and are comfortable with what the inquiry into the murder of Stephen Lawrence called the Metropolitan Police's 'institutional racism'. It is also used, though less often, with regard to the UK armed forces and prison service.

The phrase began to be used in the late 1980s. The first citation I've located is from The Listener, October 1987:

"Their training has covered the thorny question of relationships inside the Police Station under the powerful influence of 'canteen culture'."

QUOTE BOX

You want soldiers who, when they get to a river after a long march, don't start rooting for their canteen in their pack, but just dive right in.

— Tom Waits
